Basketball has defense, which is based on aggressiveness. The defense tries to dictate your opponents' actions, which is accomplished by the tempo, your opponents' moves, the ball, and whether it is above or below the free throw line extended. These actions are facilitated by stance, communication, intent, movement, and positioning.